

ABSTRACT

Managing a plurality of printing devices on a network, including detecting a printing device

5 connected on the network, requesting information from the detected printing device, receiving the requested information from the printing device, and creating a print queue for the printing device based on the received information.

10